
3rd Annual Tequila Guy Tasting

Posted by The Tequila Guy - 2009/04/28 03:32

Here's the line up for Saturday's tasting, should be a good one--

Vertical tasting through Herencia Mexicana

Will also have two of each type for those that like to taste only blancos, reposados, or anejos.

Blancos - Sol Azul and Gran Centenario

Reposados - Cruz and Frida Kahlo

Anejos - Tonalá Suprema Reserva and El Agave Artesanal

Hope to post results and pictures soon.

Enjoy Responsibly,

TTG

Post edited by: The Tequila Guy, at: 2009/04/29 03:11

Re:3rd Annual Tequila Guy Tasting

Posted by The Tequila Guy - 2009/05/01 05:02

So this list is now changed again for the 3rd time.

Herencia Mexicana is still the vertical and Gran Centenario Plata & Frida Kahlo Repo are still on the list.

I've shifted the anejos to Dos Manos and Don Camilo. Why not right? The Dos Manos is completely a flier. Could crash and burn. It's triple distilled and less than $30. We'll see.

I put Distinguido Silver to replace the Sol Azul. I've had it for more than 2 years and it's time to drink it!

My wife also thought I needed a top of the line anejo, so I added the Cuervo Reserva de la Familia.

We'll see how it goes.....

Enjoy Responsibly,

TTG

Post edited by: The Tequila Guy, at: 2009/05/01 05:03
